From the ED's Desk

March is always a reminder of why I started down this "path" of working with seniors. My grandfather was a very proud Irish man. St. Patrick's Day has always been my favorite holiday because he instilled his Irish pride in me as a young girl. He died on the Ides of March in 2002. I am reminded everyday of his wise words, gentle spirit and kindness when I am with your loved ones. At age six he told me "you will make a great nurse someday". It was from that moment on I knew my destiny. Although I don't always "practice" nursing in my day to day position it is always within me. I am thankful for his direction way back then and his continued ways to nurture me over the years. This October I will celebrate 30 years of working with seniors. I wouldn't want it any other way. Thank you for allowing me to be a small part of your loved ones lives. It truly is my pleasure. This month's newsletter is dedicated to my gramp...thank you for always being my #1 hero, cheerleader and for your unconditional love. I still miss you every single day as if it were yesterday you left us. His favorite Irish blessing he would recite is to the right.
